

ABSTRACT

An information recording device for recording a content in an information recording medium. A 5 controller includes a creating unit for creating a time sequence index information group and a reverse time sequence index information group based on plural index information items extracted from time series data, and a recording unit for recording the index information 10 groups in an area different from an area where the time series data are recorded.